

Adaptive Ski Instructor

Description:

Disabled Sports Eastern Sierra (DSES) is a non-profit adaptive ski and snowboard school located at Main Lodge at Mammoth Mountain Ski Area in California. Instructors teach ski and/or snowboard lessons to people with physical and cognitive disabilities. Instructors are also expected to assist with events, equipment maintenance and area upkeep. This position is 40 hours per week and includes weekends and holidays from approximately November through April for the 2008-2009 season.

Requirements:

Working at DSES is an exciting, demanding and extremely rewarding job. Instructors work closely with students of all ages and are expected to be role models for our volunteer instructors. Applicants must possess excellent communication and problem solving skills. A passion for fun and working with people with disabilities in a winter environment is also prerequisite for this position.

Disabled Sports Eastern Sierra is a member school of Professional Ski Instructors of America (PSIA). Instructors teach adaptive ski and snowboard lessons using the American Teaching System. Experience teaching skiing or snowboarding, PSIA certification or the international equivalent OR experience working with people disabilities is required.
